EDITORIAL COMMENT

CITIZENS DEMAND PROTECTION.

The County Commissioners have not acted on the appointment of new officers. Tonopah is still at the mercy of the horde of thugs, yeggmen, holdups and ex-convicts, for the lack of a proper number of deputy sheriffs and policemen. In Goldfield, there are twenty-five desperate criminals in jail, who are being held on suspicion. These men have bad records, and an attempt will be made to run them out of the country, if they cannot be convicted for crime. Reno is having a house-cleaning and is driving the hard characters from the precincts of the town.

Tonopah will be the mecca for the crooks and thugs of both Reno and Goldfield, and this is as apparent to County Commissioners McQuillan and Cuddy, and yet they make no move to give the protection to life and property that is demanded. The situation demands that protection, and the public demands it. Why do not County Commissioners McQuillan and Cuddy take immediate action, and appoint more men to guard the town.

The crooks of Goldfield have had the fear of God put into them by the number of deputy sheriffs, who, armed with sawed-off shotguns, are to be met at every corner. They don't like that sort of a game, and they are coming over to Tonopah where the field of conquest looks much easier, and where there are no officers patrolling the streets with sawed-off shotguns.

Here is a situation that should be met and met right away. We do not want to wait until we are in the midst of a reign of a carnival of crime. It is the duty of the County Commissioners to head off any such a possibility, and they know the way to prevent it. Again, we ask, why do not Commissioners McQuillan and Cuddy act?

It would probably make no difference to Commissioner Cuddy whether he was held up or had his safe blown open. The holdup men and the safe crackers would not get anything.

The proprietor of the Bonanza has made a canvass of the town and has found that the consensus of opinion is that there should be not less than fifteen men appointed; and that they should be appointed at once.

The Nye and Ormsby County Bank opened yesterday, as was promised; the State Bank and Trust Company did not fulfill its promises. Lack of space does not permit our going into the case of the banks this morning, but we will give the matter our attention within the next day or two.

HYDRAULIC GIANT IS AGAIN WORKING

The past cold spell froze up the pipe line of the hydraulic company so that for a week it was necessary to suspend operations. The pipe has now been thawed out and work resumed.

Men have been testing the pipe for leaks before covering it and it was while this work was in progress that the big conduit froze. Everything has been found in good order and it will be but a few days before the pipe will be covered with soil and all further danger of freezing eliminated.

The big two-inch giant has been set and is now tearing down the dirt at the rate of about four hundred tons every twenty-four hours. Only one man is required to handle the big nozzle so that this big quantity of dirt is practically moved by the agency of a single man.

The dirt that is now being worked is about six to eight feet in depth and very hard, being a cement like composition which requires the full force of the water to disintegrate. The water then carries the dirt down the slope of the mountain at the base of which are set the sluice boxes.

Since the resumption of work the men have been entering a shallow gulch which is cleaning up better than two hundred dollars per cubic yard.

Messrs. Henry J. Bartlett and Thomas (Dry Wash) Wilson, who are constantly on the ground, are very much pleased with the success of the big undertaking which they have put through. As yet, the second giant has not been installed, which, when it begins to work will double the present amount of dirt put through the sluices. It will only be a matter of a very short time before the hydraulic company will be paying regular monthly dividends. It has a two years' lease on all of the placer ground and it will take twice that time to run through all the rich auriferous dirt which it controls. The White Horse fraction of less than five acres is estimated to contain more than fifty thousand dollars worth of gold. This fraction was bought by the Round Mountain Combination Mining Company for three hundred dollars.

A great quantity of lumber is already on the ground for the purpose of constructing the flumes which will carry the water to the various points where sluicing will be carried on. The large main flume is now being built and will be used for ground sluicing. This will be of sufficient size to carry away all the water and tailings which the giants will be knocking away next spring.—Round Mountain Nugget.

COPPER SUTLOOK IS BRIGHTENING

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Immediately after the turn of the year, says the News Bureau today, the copper output of the refiners will begin to show the effects of curtailment at the mines in October and November, and by that time monetary conditions should be easier. It is very apparent, however, that any advance in the copper metal market will have to come from the demand by the American consumers. The foreigners have bought all they can be expected to buy.

Exports of copper to Europe continue heavy, and December was the best on record with about 40,000 tons exported, compared with 34,000 tons in November.

A leading mining engineer, who has made several examinations of the Balaklala property in Shasta county, California, says: "It is a rather remarkable situation when the Balaklala property, which has three million tons of ore in sight, that will average 2.7 per cent copper with $1 per ton in gold and silver values, of a total value of about $10,000,000, is selling for less than $1,500,000, allowing that the surface workings fully represent the value of the outstanding bonds. Such is the fact, however. I know the Balaklala property thoroughly, every foot of it, and I have yet to read a statement about property, which has overestimated its value or prospects. All it has needed has been some intelligence in the management."

THE NEVADA CLUB — SWELLEST BAR IN ALL THE WEST

Improvements are being added to the Nevada Club every day. The office and the clubroom downstairs are receiving touches here and there, and are gradually getting into the shape of the original design. A table and chairs of oak, and a handsome leather divan now adorn the cosy room, and the windows are covered with pongee silk curtains. Another costly imported rug is to be added to the collection in the clubroom, and the light here, too, is to be softened by the addition of silk curtains on the windows. There is a concert in the clubroom at 2 o'clock every afternoon, and the songs of Melba, Schalehi Caruso, Dick Jose and other world-wide artists, and the music of Sousa, Strauss, Sullivan, Mascagni, and the other composers are heard on the Victor Vitrola. The latter instrument formerly occupied a niche in Mr. Crumley's home, but yielding to the demands of his friends, he had it taken to the club.

You can have anything in the way of music that you want, and if it does not happen to be on hand, the host will get it for you. If there are any suggestions that you want to make in the way of improvement, they will not only be entertained, but will be appreciated. Particularly does this apply to the clubroom, for it is desired to make that of all places the most comfortable, ornate and inviting.

In the barroom, with its handsome appointments and its Old Crow whiskey of '99 and '01, there does not seem to be any room for improvement, and this compliment extends to the men behind the bar. The men are adepts in the art of mixing, and a cheery word and a smile goes with every drink. The bartenders are all well known and popular in the city. They are Albert Anderson, who has been with Grant Crumley ever since he has been in business; Charley Pope, from Batte, who was long at the Cobweb; Lou Tindall and Steve Keene, all of them good fellows, who know their business, and who are just the sort of men to handle the high class trade to which the Nevada Club caters. There will be no intoxicated or objectionable characters in that saloon.

Commencing today, a hot lunch will be served from 11 in the morning until 1 in the afternoon, and salads and cold meats from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 in the evening.

One of the features of the Nevada Club is the manner in which the Rainier draft beer is handled. It is brought up in pipes from the refrigerator in the basement to the inside of the bar, where the pipes are boxed, and this preserves the beer always in the best possible condition. If there is anything that has been overlooked in the entire menage, a number of inspections have failed to discover it.

BUTTE CONDITIONS ARE IMPROVING

Late advices from Butte indicate that all the Boston & Montana mines are being reopened, and as the men are laid off at the other Amalgamated mines, they are given cards to the Boston & Montana and put to work by the latter.

The Leonard and West Colusa mines which had been closed for three months or more on account of fire in those properties, are being reopened, the fire having been bulk-headed off and put under control on all levels but two or three.

Prior to the shutdown of the Anaconda Hill mines the Boston & Montana company confined its mining to the Mountain View, East Colusa and a portion of the Pennsylvania mine. It is now the intention of the company to gradually increase the output of all its mines until the capacity of the Great Falls smelter, which is about 4000 tons per day, is reached.

The Mountain View production is being increased from 700 to about 1400 tons per day, the Pennsylvania from 400 to 1100, and the East Colusa from 200 to 300, while it is expected to get about 400 tons each from the Leonard and West Colusa.

The mining in the Leonard will be done at the east end, in new stopes on the 1200, 1300, 1000, and probably on the 500 and 600 levels. There will be no mining for some time yet on the 700, 800 and 900 levels. In the West Colusa mining will be done in the west end on the 300, 400, 500 and 600 levels.

Only Boston & Montana ore will be mined under the new arrangement. At the other Amalgamated mines a number of men are retained as watchmen to keep up repair work, and keep the pumps working. From 30 to 40 men are thus employed at the closed mines. The North Butte and Butte Coalition companies are keeping up development work.

The failure of Whitney & Stephenson, the big brokerage firm of Pittsburg, was chiefly responsible for the suspension of development work by the Butte & Baboon Company north of Butte, though some other causes contributed to it. The Pittsburg firm was agent for the company in the collection of subscriptions and when it failed the collections ceased.

BUILDING MILL ON THE SHOSHONE

The Round Mountain Reduction Company has finally decided to erect their plant on Shoshone Creek and men are now engaged in putting up the mill building on the original site selected.

For some time General Manager C. H. Nazro has been contemplating putting up the mill at the base of Stebbins hill, but after considering the matter from all points of view determined in favor of the creek site.

The lumber which was bought in Salt Lake City has been arriving by twenty-mile teams during the past week and there is sufficient on the ground to begin the construction work with. John W. Erickson is in charge and no time will be lost in rushing the work to completion. He is an expert mill man, having been formerly associated with the Hendrick & Bolthoff Manufacturing Company of Denver. He it was who put up the big mill at Silver Bell, Ariz., for the El Toro Mining Company.

The Elspass mill, which has already been bought in Denver, is somewhere on the road to Round Mountain. Besides the mill, Mr. Erickson has drawn the plans for a company living house and offices, which will be put up near the mill building.

The water will probably be furnished to the mill through the means of a well which is being dug. A bed rock dam will probably be built in order to retain the water and secure a sufficient level.—Round Mountain Nugget.
